Subject: Needed Change from an owner of a PRC Regulated Utility.

Tom,

I would like to communicate with you during this session. I have been a long time friend and ally of Susana and Chuck, ask them. I have spoken to various people who know the PRC for what it is. David King, Sandy Jones, Jason Marks, Ben Hall and Pat Lyons have one thing in common use the PRC as a springboard for future public political gain. The Democrats consider Susana a flash in the pan, they want to stonewall her and Gary King run for Governor, and promise Jason Marks the AG Office for being a good boy.

I have been in litigation with the PRC and I assure you will know my name either now, or when I sue the State for millions. I have spent over $1,000,000.00 in my legal defense to protect my water and sewer company that is the largest single adjudicated water rights holder in the Lower Rio Grande, my rights are not in the EBID but on the West Mesa. David King has fabricated lies about my company but now he will be on the hot seat as I will be deposing him in my action against the PRC.

You have heard about the 3rd District Court corruption issues??? Well the Judge on my case Judge James Martin has come to some sense of equity and is allowing me to depose the PRC and related parties.

Susana last year had members of law enforcement contact me to answer questions about NM and PRC Corruption which continues to abound. I hope to hear from you now or indeed you will hear from me later.

Stephen Blanco

Subject: Heart Gallery

Good morning,

I spoke with Raul Barciaga on Friday.

He blames the Art Foundation, which can be found at www.nmcapitolart.org

They decide what artists will be featured in the capitol building.

I asked about the cowboy painting that is outside of the entrance to the Governor's office, he stated it has hung there since he began work there, 12 years ago. I asked if that one painting could be removed to put the photos of the children there, and he said probably NOT. The Governor has her own gallery and she can do whatever she wants in that space, but the remainder of the building is for the Art Foundation to decide.

He explained to me that he has had just as many phone calls telling him that it is exploitation of the children, to hang their pictures in the capitol. I wanted to call him a liar, but I didn't.

I pitched that they are our children, New Mexico's own, who are searching for a family.

He said all types of causes will want space on the walls of the capitol, if they display the heart gallery.

They are trying to show case NM art. But why don't they change the art around from time to time.

Maybe the Fiesta Project can take on this task and rally support for the heart gallery at the capitol.

FYI

Here is the aforesaid upcoming fed complaint, in very rough draft form, for your review and comment. The remedy sought is straight from Mark's pleadings -- asks the federal court to draw a map, and also to retain jurisdiction to review Judge Hall's map. Should this be requested in the alternative?

This may be a bit edgy, but edgy isn't always bad. I agree that we could use more detail as to comparing Hall v. the Democratic Party (Judicial Bureau). As I type this, I realize I didn't complete my thought in here as to Brian Sanderoff's appointment. I need to drop the shoe at the end.

Take a look at the parties, I've only named SOS and Governor. Let the jerks intervene. Any more ideas on more Plaintiffs? Claudette is definitely on board.

I'm not worried about the injunction sought in this draft because it's not against a court. But think about the remedies we need to ask for. If we are going to seek to enjoin the Supreme Court or Hall, we need to be careful with the Anti-Injunction Act.

Hispanos Unidos Launches State-of-the-Art Website Today

"The Hottest News and Info from the Fastest Growing Grassroots Movement in New Mexico"

MESILLA PARK, NM -- Four years ago, Dax Contreras organized New Mexican voters to demand government accountability and oversight because the voice of the people was not being recognized by our representatives in Santa Fe. Today, Hispanos Unidos says it is leading the way for all New Mexicans in securing a more equal and prosperous future.

"We are very excited about our new website, which will be a force for change in the status quo of how New Mexico government will respond to the people," said Contreras. "Through our website and blog, we will empower the people to hold their governments accountable."

"It is time for a new day in New Mexico. We are doing everything possible to make that new day a reality," announced Dax, who explained that Hispanos Unidos began as a resource for communities to express their concerns about voter participation and government accountability. Education reform is now the group's top priority.

Dax Contreras is the founder of Hispanos Unidos PAC, a non-partisan New Mexican organization committed to the issues that matter to all Americans: education, equality, and ethical government.

A study like this one would be very valuable---particularly if we could pin down legislative candidates on where they stand on RTW. We need a sugar daddy willing to put up $$$ to push it. We can win all close elections if D is dumb enough to oppose. This is by far the easiest and cheapest economic development.

We need one bill for private sector and maybe one for public sector--I think Richardson may have mandatory dues in public sector but not sure?

Perhaps we could achieve results like 1980 if we can get this going quick enough

Mark Moores Announces Candidacy for Senate District 21

Fresh new leadership who will stand tall for conservative values

www.MarkMoores.com

Albuquerque: Republican representation will return to State Senate District 21 in November as Mark Moores of Albuquerque today announced his candidacy for the twenty-first district in Bernalillo County.

Senate District 21 has voted Republican for decades, yet was recently filled by a Democrat after the Bernalillo and Sandoval County Commission nominated a liberal trial lawyer to fill the seat vacated by Kent Cravens. An Albuquerque Journal editorial described this backroom deal as a "bush-league political power play."

Standing at 6'6", Moores, a former UNM Lobos offensive lineman, stated "I'm not afraid to stand tall and tackle the hard issues. The county commissions thumbed their noses at the voters of Senate District 21 by appointing a liberal Democrat to a seat where the voters are reliably conservative. The Albuquerque Journal was right to call out these shenanigans. This is a district that for decades has voted for the GOP, and come November, it will again be represented by a Republican.”

Moores has a long family history in New Mexico. His mother's side of the family has lived in the farming community of San Pedro for generations. “I'm a proud New Mexican. My family has been proud Republicans for generations. However, I am concerned about of the culture of corruption that seems to have taken over in Santa Fe. Pay-to-play politics and backroom political deals must end. I say enough is enough and I will fight to return integrity to the system.”

Mark attended UNM on a scholarship to play football. He received a BA from UNM and later an MBA from the UNM Anderson School of Management. He is the former President of the UNM Lettermen Association and is currently a board member on the UNM Lobo Club.

“As Senator for District 21, I pledge that I will fight for the conservative values held by the voters of the district and support Governor Martinez's efforts to stop New Mexico from providing driver's licenses to illegal immigrants; to improve our schools by ending social promotion and giving letter grades to all schools; to require photo ID before being allowed to vote; to eliminate red tape and reduce government spending; and especially to fight against corruption in Santa Fe.”

Mark Moores brings management and public service experience to Santa Fe. He currently serves as Executive Director of the New Mexico Dental Association. He was part of the team that organized the single largest charitable event in the history of the state. During the two-day event at the State Fairgrounds, NM Mission of Mercy served 2201 members of our community, giving away $1.3 million in free dental care.

Moores' Background:

- MBA and BA-University of New Mexico
- 4 year letterman UNM football
- Family has been proud Republicans in New Mexico for generations
- Married to LeeAnn—math teacher at La Cueva High School
- Daughter Sara attends La Cueva High School

Subject: Can You Get a Message to Governor Martinez?

Anissa,

I hope this finds you well.

When we met on the campaign trail, you were assisting Susana Martinez. I asked for a way to get an email to her with an idea in which she expressed interest, and you said "Send it to me, and I'll see that she gets it." I'm hoping you can still do that.

I send you messages on Economic Liberty on a fairly frequent basis. Have you forwarded any of those to her?

You may also remember me as the host for the campaign fund raiser in Corrales where Susana's cell phone was misplaced, so you had to come back to look for it. I've often wondered whether you found it.

If you can, will you please let the Governor know that I am interested in running for Dave Doyle's NM House District 23 seat now that he has announced for John Sapien's NM Senate District 09 seat?

I know that Paul Pacheco has also expressed an interest in that seat, and if the Governor and Jay McClesky think that he's the best choice, I won't stand in the way. Still, I would like them to consider me. I have let Ryan Cangilosi know of my interest this afternoon, too, but he hasn't had time to talk about it yet.

While your at it, you could also let her know that if I am the candidate I will tell everyone, "I'm running to help Susana," and I want to put a sticker with her name on it on every one of my campaign signs!

Thanks!

Mike

Jessica and Janel, I hope you will consider the summary set out as attached on Senate Bill 225. I know the Governor vetoed the bill last year, but perhaps this background will help. If it matters, I will contact Grover Norquist at Americans for Tax Reform for his input as to whether in their opinion they consider complying with the Master Settlement Agreement a tax increase. I think he will agree it does not constitute a tax increase. If there are any questions I am available to discuss them with you.

Thank you. Mickey

Senate Bill 225 Should be Signed Into Law

Key Points

Senate Bill 225 is intended to address a problem that places New Mexico's entire Master Settlement Agreement ("MSA") settlement payment at risk for each year that the state fails to act. The settlement payments to the state are subject to a downward adjustment if the state fails to collect escrow on cigarettes and RYO sold in New Mexico by companies that do not participate in the MSA – so called non-participating manufacturers or NPMs.

The per stick payments required by the NPMs are not a tax. The money placed in escrow continues to belong to the companies that deposit it into the escrow accounts that they establish. The companies also collect all amounts earned each year on all of the money they have placed into their escrow account.

The money placed in escrow is intended to provide the state with a potential pool of funds against which it can recover, if it decides to pursue health care cost recovery claims against the tobacco companies that deposit it into their escrow accounts.

The state stands to lose approximately $1.7M every year that it fails to act to address this issue. Already the state has at risk more than $12M for 2003 through 2010. A nationwide arbitration involving the states and the tobacco companies that signed the MSA is already underway with respect to the adjustment relating to 2003.

Additional Background Information

New Mexico is a party to the Master Settlement Agreement entered into in November 1998 by the major tobacco companies and 46 Settling States, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and four U.S. territories.

The MSA resolved litigation that had been brought by the states – including New Mexico – against the major tobacco companies. The terms of the settlement requires billions of dollars of annual payments in perpetuity on the part of the tobacco companies that participate in the settlement.

Importantly, the MSA imposes on the tobacco companies that participate in the settlement a broad range of conduct restrictions that fundamentally change the manner in which tobacco products are marketed in the United States. These conduct restrictions were demanded by the states in order to achieve important public health goals, including reducing underage tobacco use.

The significant costs imposed on the tobacco companies that participate in the MSA have driven the price of their brands up dramatically since 1998. Without more, the inevitable result of these settlement related price increases will be reduced sales. Importantly, however, lost sales by the participating manufacturers do not necessarily mean smokers are smoking less. Instead, the sales may simply be shifting to companies that do not participate in the MSA.

If tobacco companies that do not participate in the settlement agreement – so called non-participating manufacturers or NPMs – are allowed to enjoy the resulting significant cost advantage, the manufacturers that are participating in the settlement will lose sales to these non-participating manufacturers. These NPMs do not operate under the conduct restrictions imposed by the MSA and are able to price their brands at a level that facilitates youth smoking.

This is precisely what has happened. The manufacturers that elected to join the settlement and make substantial payments to the states and to operate under the stringent conduct restrictions imposed by the MSA have lost substantial market share to the tobacco companies that have elected to operate outside the framework of the settlement.

When the MSA was drafted, the states and the settling companies anticipated that this effect was likely to occur. To avoid this result and to protect the public health benefits achieved by the MSA, as well as the revenue stream represented by the settlement payments, the states agreed to enact and diligently enforce legislation that requires the NPMs to make per stick escrow payments comparable to the per stick settlement payments made by the participating manufacturers.

The idea was to level the competitive playing field and to avoid the NPMs from gaining sales not covered by the conduct restrictions imposed by the MSA and without setting aside funds that could potentially be available to compensate the state for health care costs that the state incurred as a result of the use of cigarettes sold by the NPMs.

Some NPMs have pursued various strategies to avoid making the escrow payments required by the legislation contemplated by the MSA. In particular, cigarette sales on Indian Reservations have become a major means of evading payment obligations under the escrow statutes. The failure to apply tax stamps to packs of cigarettes sold on Indian Reservations – even sales to non-tribal members – has been used as an excuse to not deposit escrow payments on such sales. This practice takes advantage of language in the state's escrow statute that the current legislation is designed to address.

By failing to address this legislative issue, the state is placing at risk its entire share of the MSA settlement proceeds for each year that the state fails to act. The state is already involved in an arbitration with respect to adjustments to its 2003 settlement payments. Other arbitrations with respect to the subsequent years will follow in due course.

Every year that the state fails to act places more of the state's settlement proceeds at risk. Already the state has more than $12M at risk. Failing to amend the language of the escrow statute simply allows the problem to grow worse.

Another case that highlights the need for New Mexico to repeal the law that gives driver's licenses to illegal immigrants. I will keep fighting to get rid of this dangerous law and am confident we will ultimately prevail.

Legislators May Face Heat Over Mora County Courthouse 2012 Capital Outlay Request; Partial Funding Could Add to More Government Waste

KRQE News called it a "Monument to Government Waste," and KOBT News reported that the Mora County courthouse complex project ballooned from a price of $2.6 million to $14 million and taxpayers are having to be forced to repay the $2.6 million dollar debt over the next 15 years due to the poor planning.

But now the small community of Mora (1,000 residents) is now asking the legislature to cover up the mess and are requesting another $4 million dollars from the 2012 Capital Outlay Bill.

The $4 million dollars is only going to cover finishing 1 floor of the courthouse, leaving an uninhabited building with 2 more floors to be finished, and still another $8-12 million to finish the project.

(Click here to Read the Report by Larry Barker for KRQE News on the "Monuments to Government Waste")

Poor planning coupled with even more poor planning may be an election wedge issue for many legislators who participate in dumping even more taxpayer dollars into the project.

Currently state code does not allow for inhabiting a 3 story building where the 2 upper floors have yet to be completed. Whether it is inexperience or loosely spending taxpayer dollars, residents are calling on accountability from the legislature and county officials before any leaders commit more funds to the project without a 100% inhabitable building.

With other projects in the communities of Las Vegas and Wagon Mound that need smaller amounts to have finished projects, it is unclear as to whether or not legislators will send the capital outlay to projects that will be 100% complete or dumping cash into the "Mora Taj Mahal."

Currently, the new Mora County Commission is divided, leaving the small community in Mora looking for answers to their questions of how this project continues to spiral out of control.

Redistricting has taken Senator Griego out of the area and Senator Campos will be now the Senator for the area. Legislators who have already contributed to the project have halted funding until a long-term viable solution is presented that will complete the project 100% so that the building may be inhabited.

But residents are now concerned with the rising costs of heating/cooling the building given that the facility is a whopping 44,000 square feet, whereas they are currently utilizing 4,000 square feet of buildings.

The Capital Outlay Bill will likely be wrapped up this week leaving all legislators accountable for the decision to continue dumping taxpayer dollars without a finished product.

Scott,

Got a call from Megan Kamerick wanting to talk to Nick about Sony Imageworks pulling out of ABQ by this summer and moving to Vancouver. They have currently 75 to 100 jobs here.

This decision had nothing to do with our tax credit they were just offered a much better deal by Vancouver.

Is it ok for Nick to talk to her?
